NEW BIKE & BARGE CYCLING CRUISE IN FRANCE

Burgundy from Auxerre aboard a luxury hotel barge – a special one-off departure for 2015

For those looking for the ultimate in fully inclusive Bike & Barge comfort with a choice of easy-paced cycling or guided sightseeing we offer a one-off 7-day / 6-night tour departing on 17th October 2015.

Starting with a bus transfer from central Paris to Auxerre in the beautiful Yonne region, we cycle and cruise the River Yonne past nearby Chablis, Avalon and Vézelay to Clemency in the heart of Burgundy. Interwoven with sections of the Nivernais canal, we cruise through locks, past a succession of pretty stone-built villages along a waterway once used for floating timber and wine barrels downstream to Paris. We follow the path taken by Romans and pilgrims past Charolais cows grazing in the lush meadows beside this enchanting waterway. A journey through history full of the charm of times past.

The barge accommodates up to 14 guests in eight air-conditioned cabins each with a private bathroom.

Meals on board the barge are treasured times, opportunities to share with friends — old and new — a summer luncheon or candlelit dinner. Our chef is encouraged to be innovative and imaginative, creating French cuisine with a contemporary twist using fresh local ingredients. Breakfast offers freshly baked croissants, pastries and bread. Lunch is a feast of salads and savoury dishes, followed by a selection of fresh fruit and cheeses. The four-course evening meal is the gastronomic highlight of each day, to be concluded, on the starlit nights for which Burgundy is noted, with coffee and liqueurs on deck.

Daily, guided cycling excursions are offered – with a support – to medieval towns, chateaux and the glorious vineyards – blending culture and shopping opportunities along the way! Bicycles are provided for passengers to use or you can stay onboard to enjoy the cruising as you wish.

Wines are served with lunch and dinner and there is an ‘open bar’ available at all times. The sun deck, with seating, tables and umbrellas, offers the perfect place to enjoy the scenery as it unfolds and to relish uninterrupted views of rural Burgundy.

Suggested itinerary:

Sunday: Transfer from Paris to the barge moored at Auxerre to meet the other passengers, crew and cycle guide. Time for bike fitting and to take them for a spin along the towpath before dinner.

Monday: Morning Cruise from Auxerre to Vincelles or cycle along the towpath looping round Vaux and Champs-sur-Yonne. After lunch cycle to Chablis for wine tasting, via Irancy and Pr  hy.
Distance: 25km or 50km

Tuesday: Cycle to Coulanges-la-Vineuse, Pinot Noir wine country and return to the barge for lunch. Afternoon cruising from Vincelles to Accolay or cycle a loop from Accolay via Bessy-sur-Yonne.
Distance: 18km or 35km

Wednesday: Early morning cruise and visit to Noyers with picnic in the town. Cycle from Noyers to Colombier and afternoon cruise from Accolay to Mailly-le-Ch  teau or a cycle loop via Trucy-sur-Yonne.
Distance: 16km or 29km

Thursday: Morning cruise or from Mailly-le-Ch  teau to Chatel Censoir. Afternoon ride to V  zelay via Fontenille and visit the Basilica Mary Magdalene return via Asnieres-sous-Bois. Alternatively take the bus tour of the Chateau of Bazoches.
Distance: 15km or 40km

Friday: Morning cruise Lucy-sur-Yonne to Clamecy. Cycle from Lucy-sur-Yonne to Pousseaux, via Surgy and in the afternoon cycle along the Nivernais Canal to Tannay returning via Teigny.
Distance: 21km or 45km

Saturday: Departure transfer to Paris arriving at approximately 1.00pm

The cost per person in a twin share cabin is $5240 (single cabin costs available on request). There are still a very limited number of cabins still available for the hotel barge cruise only on selected dates in August, September & October 2015 – for details see this link: <http://bit.ly/1xiG2Pt>

CYCLING IN PROVENCE

What you said about our tours – self-guided inn-to-inn e-bike cycling

Orange - Uz  s - Pont du Gard - Avignon - St. R  my - Les Baux - Arles

“Overall it was a great trip and we enjoyed it very much. The e-bikes were close to brand new and performed very well with the batteries lasting 50 km, mostly on touring settings. The local team were very efficient and friendly. All hotel bookings were in place as were restaurant bookings for dinner. We had terrific weather. Cool mornings, cloudless skies through the day and pleasant evenings.

We had a slow start with British Airways from Heathrow leaving nearly 30 minutes late to go to Marseilles, which meant we missed the train we had planned to get us to Orange in time to meet the courier at the first hotel where we had two nights’ stay. We did not arrive at the hotel until after 9pm, when we should have been there about 5 pm. The courier waited an hour and a half for us but eventually left us a long explanatory note and the phone number if we had questions.

It was an excellent little three star hotel. First class breakfast buffet; the best we had on the trip, nice room if a tad small (but that's general in French hotels) and very good service, dinner the first night was in a good pizza restaurant across the streets from the hotel. Dinner the next night was in a restaurant, the Theatre, not far from the big Roman auditorium.

The ride to Uzes was just what your itinerary said it would be.

The hotel in Uzes was the only one on the itinerary that had a restaurant for dinner. Good, quite upmarket. Hotel good; in a series of properties along the rue Sigalon.

Good run to Avignon, which we enjoyed. The hotel was the only one we had reservations about. It's a big place in the main street of Avignon; a bit cheerless. Hardly anyone staying there but we got a room at the back with no view. Breakfast OK.

Next day took us to St Remy en Provence and the Hotel Gounod, a real gem; a beautiful hotel with all mod cons, excellent breakfast served to the table, not a buffet and a booking at a very good restaurant for both dinners.

The final hotel was in Arles, a place we enjoyed very much. The hotel is old and the breakfast wasn't much chop but the two restaurants booked for us for dinner were excellent, particularly the Les Filles du 16. Small, popular and very good food. The Plaza the next night was bigger, also good, but not as good as Les Filles du 16.

The run from Arles to St Marie de la Mer was an easy 40km over flat terrain and a quick dip in the Med a token rather than a pleasure. Francois turned up with the van/taxi right on time at the appointed place and we had a nice run back to Arles. Train from there to Avignon and then on by TER to Dijon.

Along the way we met all sorts of helpful very pleasant people — a postman south of Arles who stopped his van and directed us away from a swamp and a major highway, and stopped again about 20 minutes later to check that we were OK. The ticket clerk in the railway station at Arles who took the tickets for Arles to Orange, used the credit towards seniors tickets to Dijon and we did the whole trip in TER comfort for 80 euros.

I should add that the WiFi was excellent at every hotel. It was very fast and free in all the hotels. Mobile service also good.

Maps and directions were easy to follow (though on a couple of occasions we got on the wrong road by misunderstanding where a turn should have been made) and altogether we are (a) proud of our cycling orienteering skills, (b) pleased with the arrangements, (c) if a bit sunburned, very happy with the trip."

*Many thanks, Garry and Jenny Barker

WALKING IN THE FRENCH BASQUES

A personal account by Paul Lamarra

I have just returned from a week's walking in the French Basque county, if there is such a thing as French Basque, with James and Diana Tamlyn.

Enthusiastic francophiles, James and Diana moved out to France in 1994 and have found that conducting their own brand of walking holidays is the perfect outlet for their love of France and in particular the food, wine and landscape. I found their knowledge of this particular trinity to be much deeper than the average francophile.

It is safe to say I have never been on a walking holiday quite like it. James casts himself in the role of eccentric Englishman abroad and more specifically on safari. There were no wild animals but wherever he pointed his broly I would follow.

Their unique approach is to recreate the intimate atmosphere of an extended dinner party. At no time did it feel formal or organised – although I am certain it was – and I came away feeling I had known James and Diana and the other six, Australian, guests since birth.

Auberge de Bois

The emphasis is firmly on La Belle Vie but James and Diana are anxious that travelling in France should not be a spectator sport where the tourist merely looks on. Therefore on the first night we were bussed to the Auberge de Bois near Saveterre-de-Béarn – best described as a hunters' cafe. When we entered the only other diner scowled to the point that his mono brow merged with the top of his thick framed glasses. Man and spectacles were one.

It was the kind of place where everyone is served at long tables and all the crockery and cutlery you will need is piled up neatly before you. The crockery was almost translucent and the cutlery somewhat lightweight.

The, first course, was a tasty vegetable broth served from a steel basin until I could eat no more. There was a charcuterie, roast chicken and frites and then slices of the local Ossau-Iraty cheese. Dessert was a selection of cornettos offered round in a basket. The wine was Corbiere and came in a plastic bottle with a plastic cap that you flick out with your thumb without the delay of using a corkscrew. It was more Chateau 3pm Yesterday than a Chateau Y'qem 1959.

Part of the experience was the TV on the wall. Inevitably the conversation would grind to a halt every time Barcelona scored another goal.

Wine Tasting with Minette Constant

The antithesis of this experience was a wine tasting with master of wine Minette Constant in the creaky elegance of Béthouzet, an isolated manoir built in the reign of Louis XV.

An accentless Scot and platinum blonde, Minette led us through seven wines from the south-west. My favourite was a toasty dry white from the Domaine Berthoumeiu - "Les Pierres de Grés" 2012.

Wine tastings are ripe for faux-pas. My faux-pas was to declare that one wine reminded me most specifically of the bubble mixture I used to purchase on a seaside holiday for the purposes of blowing bubbles. "I think your nose is being influenced by the odours from the log fire," was Minette's diplomatic response.

The damage was done however and for seven amateur wine tasters not inclined to use the spittoons the scents of domestic cleaning products were added to our limited wine-vocabulary.

Picnics

James and Diana have taken a great deal of care to select picnic spots that are out of the ordinary. The first was in a field under a spreading oak while another was on sloping ground with a clear view over the foothills (Pyren-ankles) of the Pyrenees into Spain (sorry Navarre).

Diana's carefully prepared picnics featured fresh asparagus, local sausage, lentil salads and cured Basque ham cut from the leg by James. A completely new one on me was truite de Banka (pronounced bonka) – farmed in as natural circumstances as possible the dense pink flesh is testament to the exercise the fish enjoy swimming against the artificially induced currents. It is the trout favoured by the likes of Alain Ducasse.

Borders

I have not yet touched on the walking aspect of the trip. The walking never exceeded 16 kilometres and did not take up too much of our time. There were many walks and the highlight of the week for me was a walk from near Sare in France, where we were based, to Berra, in Spain. Following the path of contrabandiers (smugglers) we moved through the head height broom and gorse with no stealth whatsoever to the col de Nive or Lepoz Lepo. Even today I am told it is worth crossing the border for cheap fags, drink and petrol.

The border was patrolled by sturdy Basque ponies known as potok. The frontier is, however, only celebrated in the legal mind and not in any sense by the Basques who welcomed us to Navarre rather than Spain.

It was a week of crossing borders and I had to be mindful of the small differences between the Béarnais, the Soulais and the Basque. The only one I can actively recall was that as we entered the Basque the shutters on the windows were the deep red of bull's blood.

"Hi there Yvette. We had a great time.... All the bookings you made for us turned out well. We enjoyed the Premium Economy Travel. The time in Sorrento was lovely, we really enjoyed that area. The Amalfi Coast is the best... Enjoyed the accommodation at Johanna Park, especially the "short cut" to town.

Our 10 day coach tour was good. Our guide Salvatore was a real character. There were only 27 people on the tour so was a comfortable group. We really enjoyed the Bike & Barge and although the weather was COOL and windy at least we did not have to ride in the rain!!! Averaged 45km a day which was good to do especially after being spoilt on the Avalon River Cruise.....

The tulip fields and the Flora Holland market were the highlights, but it was so lovely riding through the countryside. The crew on the Zwaan were great, lovely meals.

We enjoyed being overseas before the "peak tourist time" and although the weather was cooler it was lovely not having to deal with the crowds....." Gaylene and June
